Technical Overview

Overall Trend:

After a long period of correction, an impulsive buying has occurred. This week the index had an average volume of 9.6 arba. The market seemed to have reacted to the support zone. Could the movement have been sparked with rumors of appointment of the governor for the NRB? The movement seems positive with the hydro sector having the most interesting movement, as lot of large cap to mid-cap hydropower had their prices up by 3% this week.

If we do get to see the same support zone react similarly the market could reverse and head above 2700 to 2790.

Daily analysis

On a daily timeframe, the short term movement shows a good buying reaction from the investors. The 2700 stands as an immediate resistance for this current uptrend.

Further reaction and timing from the market shall reveal more about the current economic/ political situation.
